Logo Usage Rules — Primary Logo

ZenSpace

The primary logo is the default choice across digital and print applications. It works best on light backgrounds and should not be reversed or placed on dark surfaces.

The secondary logo is designed for contexts where the primary logo cannot perform — dark backgrounds, single-color print runs, screen printing, and embroidery. It offers the same brand presence with greater production flexibility.

The color of the central Zen Buddha figure within the secondary logo may be changed to black, making it suitable for monochrome applications and high-contrast dark surfaces.

As with the primary logo, the secondary logo may appear with or without the tagline depending on available space and context.
